

Problem statement: Over half of central Africa's sea turtles are considered threatened or endangered. These species serve important ecological function and are food sources for locals, yet their status along the coast of Central Africa is unclear.

Inputs	Activities	Outputs	Short and Medium Term Outcomes	Long Term Outcomes (Impacts)
Resources	How you will use your resources	What is produced by your activities	Changes in learning and action	Changes in conditions
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ASPIRE grant financing Connections with WWF and Cameroon's Ministry of Forestry & Wildlife Access to fisherman's knowledge 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Interviews with over 100 fishermen in 8 communities Daily reports of turtle bycatch numbers Community training program planning 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Written report outlining main causes of sea turtle death (bycatch) Fisherman reporting network Sensitization campaign presented to 200 people 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Increased community awareness New community skills for removing turtles stuck in nets Better guidance for policy design protecting turtles 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Long term assessment plan through community partnership Fewer turtle deaths through sustainable fishing practices
*Adapted from 2016 awardee Ursula Bénédite Koumbo Tabacum's CARN ASPIRE research https://www.conservationactionresearch.net/articles/a-sheros-journey-to-saving-sea-turtles				